SETUP

- COSTUME cards are a new type of Power card for King of Tokyo but have a different back.

Players begin play with a COSTUME card. Every player draws 2 COSTUME cards and chooses one to place in front of them. Extra COSTUME cards are shuffled with the Power card deck.

- Evolution cards let you play King of Tokyo with upgraded Monsters! Pumpkin Jack's and Boogie Woogie's Evolutions work exactly like the Evolutions in King of Tokyo: Power-Up! To play with Evolution cards, you need to have this expansion.

COSTUMES

A COSTUME card is a Power card and is played, like KEEP cards, in front of the player who bought it. However, COSTUME cards are not KEEP cards and are therefore not affected by cards

- There is no limit to the number of COSTUME cards you can have at the same time. Yes, Gigazaur can become a Zombie Princess!
- You can steal COSTUME cards from other Monsters: when you roll at least , you can steal one or more COSTUME cards from each Monster you wounded. To do so, you must pay them the ⚡ cost on the COSTUME cards you stole.
- Stealing a COSTUME card does not negate any loss of ♥.

GIFT EVOLUTION

Gift Evolutions are a new type of Evolution that Monsters might receive during the game.

- Play them directly from your hand on a Monster you wound
- They stay in front of the player like Permanent Evolutions.
- A Monster can give a Gift Evolution to another Monster when they wound them.
- The Owner of a Gift Evolution is always the Monster whose name is written on the Gift Evolution.
- The effect targets the Monster who has the card in front of them, unless that Monster is the Owner (and therefore immune).
- When a Monster is eliminated, remove all the cards they own from the game, including Gift Evolution in front of other Monsters.
